

Dr. Darlene Lozano-Moody is an education professional with over 30 years of experience spanning classroom teaching, school leadership, higher education, and national-level education systems. She holds a Doctor of Philosophy in Education (Language, Literacy, and Culture) and a Master's degree in Educational Leadership, grounding her work in both research and practical leadership application. She emphasizes transferable leadership competencies such as strategic thinking, communication, emotional intelligence, team development, and evidence-based decision-making. As a facilitator, she creates learning experiences that are engaging, reflective, and solutions-focused, with the goal of developing strong, people-centered systems that drive organizational excellence.